Chop Wood, Carry Water: A Guide to Finding Spiritual ...

Chop Wood, Carry Water contains much ancient wisdom, but the emphasis is on contemporary perceptions. Many of our guides have been known to humanity for millennia: they are the world's great spiritual teachers- Christ, the Buddha, Loa Tse, Confucius.

Chop Wood, Carry Water by Rick Fields - Goodreads

Overview. More than a thousand years ago a Chinese Zen Master wrote: Magical Power, Marvelous Action! Chopping Wood, Carrying Water... The message is as true today as it was then: the greatest lessons and the profoundest heights of the spiritual path can be found in our everyday life. It is the greatest challenge for people living in contemporary society to find the spiritual aspects of working in an office, store, or factory; balancing a checkbook; raising a family; or making a relationship ...

Chop Wood, Carry Water: A Guide to Finding Spiritual ...

This book reads like a watered down version of the original Chop Wood Carry Water published 35 years ago by Rick Fields. Throwing in a fake "sensei" to espouse modern productivity axioms seems very contrived. Focusing on the process was explained much better in The Practicing Mind by Thomas Sterner.

When he got to the monastery he was told that each morning he had to chop wood for the monks fires and then carry water up to the monastery for ablutions and the kitchen. He attended prayers and meditation, but the teaching he was given was rather sparse. One day he was told to take some tea to the Abbot in his chambers.

The Chop Wood Carry Water comes from a thousand year old Chinese Zen Master who spoke of the spiritual aspect of everyday things. This reminded me (I am not a Christian) of reading where the wife of Billy Graham, Ruth Graham has a small plaque in her kitchen that says "Godly service done here daily" or something to that effect.
